

As a parent, you know your baby best. You notice things, such as how and when your baby smiles, sits up, walks, talks or holds a cup. What you are seeing is how your child is growing through different developmental stages.

Young children learn and develop differently. One baby may walk earlier than another, while another baby may talk first. These differences may even out, but some children may need extra help.

Early help does make a difference. In Kansas, your local Part C/tiny-k program is available to provide a developmental evaluation to determine if additional support would benefit your child and family.

A developmental evaluation is:

- ✓ usually done in your home around your schedule
- ✓ watching your child play and interact with people and toys in your home
- ✓ asking questions and getting information from you about your child and what your child is doing and learning
- ✓ sharing information and suggestions with you about your child's development

Someone from your local Part C/tiny-k program will be contacting you about the opportunity to provide an evaluation for your child.

All Part C- tiny-k programs

- focus on staying up to date with the best information about how children learn
- are voluntary and provide services and supports at no cost to families
- focus on helping each parent and caregiver meet the needs of their child
- work together with families to develop ideas and strategies that fit within your family's daily routines and match your favorite activities
- employ highly qualified professionals with specialized skills and knowledge.
- can help you as your child's first and most important teacher gain skills, knowledge, and confidence to make a difference in your child's life.

Thank you for allowing us the opportunity to visit with your family.
