

The state is divided into four regions, Kansas City, East, Wichita and West, each led by a regional director, an assistant regional director for programs, and an administrator for each program area; assessment and prevention, foster care, and support services.